Addressing our state's most pressing health issues: NCDHHS Secretary Mandy Cohen, MD, MPH

North Carolina faces a range of health challenges including Infant mortality, obesity, diabetes and opioid abuse. Two years ago, Dr. Mandy Cohen came to North Carolina to lead the N.C. Department of Health and Human Services. Hear her perspective on our state's health and learn about what's being done to tackle our biggest public health issues to improve the well-being of our citizens.
